Once there was a little girl named Yaroslava who was born in a field of flowers. Yaroslava loved flowers. She loved flowers so much that when she listened closely the flowers would speak to her. They would tell her how to care for them, when to water them, and sometimes they even complained about not getting enough attention! But they especially loved to tell Yaroslava their secret special names.